

Managing Intellectual Property

April 2002 -

The month in words

"There is a real emphasis in making sure that we recognize the international constituency and address its concerns"

Kathryn Barrett Park, INTA executive vice president

"Normally, only a small percentage of inventions will get used. Now those that don't get used by BT will have a higher chance of succeeding"

Mike Carr, director of enterprise venturing, BTextact

"The new bill makes clear that a program is patentable"

Akira Ryuka of Ryuka IP Law Firm in Tokyo
